

CONCLUSION

It is respectfully submitted that the above amendments are unrelated to patentability and further do not introduce new matter. Accordingly, the claims are allowable without further search or consideration. In regard to claim 3, the semantics of "first computer" and "second computer" were swapped to conform the respective phrases to corresponding support in the specification (Application, paragraphs 20 and 28). In regard to claim 20, proper antecedents were provided and the phrase "first offering" was properly related to the phrase "offering information." Entry of the above amendments are therefore appropriate under Rule 312 and are respectfully requested.

Respectfully submitted,

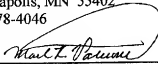

REED MALTZMAN
